

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A client receives a menu from a web server in a corporation and specifies a post of a corporation through which the client wishes to consult the corporation. The web server transfers
5 information of the specified post to a switching system disposed in the corporation to allow the switching system to extract an extension for the post and transfers the telephone number of the extension via the web server to the client. The client can originate a call onto the telephone number by clicking thereof without inputting the telephone number.

1000659-121001